There used to be a man in Ohio by the name of Thurman. Since the 14th of October he has not been seen or heard of.
It is feared that some boom has crushed him.

Ben Butler was never so thoroughly caricatured as in the last number of Harper's Weekly. Nast's last touch at Ben will provoke a laughter as broad as the Union. That picture alone will prove his political death.

A Minnesota judge recently sentenced a woman to the penitentiary for two years for killing a man. If she had killed her husband in order to make matrimony possible with another man, she would have got one year, or would have been acquitted altogether.

"Brick" Pomroy still insists that the Greenback party is "neither dead, sleeping nor discouraged." A party which is so dead that its stinks, which can't poll 10-000 out of 200,000, and which can't find a leader, can hardly be called alive, wide-awake, or hopeful.

The great number of young persons who listened last evening to the advice given in one of our churches, concerning courtship and marriage, makes the conclusion certain that in this age of novelty and invention, there is at least one good old custom of our fathers which has not lost its vigorous popularity.

Colonel Vilas, of Madison, is receiving well-earned honors for his speech at the Grant Banquet in Chicago, Thursday night. In the midst of more distinguished guests than ever before assembled in a banquet hall in the West, he delivered a speech which fairly startled his hearers. It was a surprise, a grand effort, an honor to the young man, and worthy the occasion.

Experiments with the audiphone were recently tried at the Deaf and Dumb Institution at Indianapolis, and the results were remarkably gratifying. The Evening Wisconsin says: "A class of girls, ranging from twelve to eighteen years old, and who had never heard or spoken a word, were given audiphones and brought near an organ.
As music was produced their faces at once lighted up with a smile that told what their lips could not. By their signs they afterwards told that they could not only distinguish sound, but that they could detect different sounds. Another important fact brought out was that one young lady, after hearing the sound of the human voice for the first time in her life, was induced to try to speak, and she was filled with joy when she discovered that she could produce such sounds as she had heard."

Colonel Bob Ingersoll is credited with saying to a Chicago Times reporter a few days since that "the people have had enough of Ohio for a few years to come."
Of course, Colonel Ingersoll has very little respect for President Hayes or any member of his Cabinet, and because the former is not stalwart and among the most aggressive Republicans, he heaps wholesale condemnation upon Ohio. Ohio deserves better treatment than that. At the outset of his administration, President Hayes adopted his conciliatory policy. That policy was condemned by almost the entire Republican party, for the reason the party did not believe in the principle of entering to the rebel and the bloodthirsty element in the South. The President, however, counseled to offer the Olive Branch of Peace, to the Confederates, and see how much they would appreciate conciliation. They complained that they had not been fully recognized by Grant's administration, and promised if they could get fair treatment they would behave themselves stop their brands and quit their murders. So President Hayes gave them more than they asked. He whitewashed them in his speeches, appointed them to fat offices, placed one of them in his Cabinet, and really became an ancient Moses to the ex-rebel. But no sooner had the President set his conciliatory policy at work, than the very men whom he was befriending, serpent-like turned upon him. Then frauds increased after they became "conciliated" and murders multiplied. With all the blessings of conciliation resting upon their heads, they threatened to open Congress to whip the Executive and to starve the Government if they were not allowed to control all the elections. This was the fruit of the conciliatory policy. It shows that the Southern leaders can't be trusted; that there is no honor in them, and that they will not be reconciled except by a complete and unconditional surrender of the Government to them. Ohio must be thankful for this policy. It was a good thing to try. The country knows now that the rebels can't and won't be conciliated. Colonel Ingersoll should feel proud of Ohio, for it not only is a stalwart State, killing off a Democratic candidate for the Presidency, burying a Democratic United States Senator, and laying Erwig on the political shelf, but it has settled one point for this generation, that a manly and generous recognition of the South has the effect to increase its hatred of the North.

The curiosity of the clerks in the Post Office Department in Washington was piqued on Monday by a letter from Roswell Beardsley, postmaster at North Lansing, N. Y., who said that he had held that office for over fifty-one years, and that he began looking over the records and found out the oldest postmaster. Mr. Beardsley proved to be the man for he was commissioned on June 20, 1828, Edward Stabler, now postmaster at Sandy Springs, Md., was appointed by Andrew Jackson in 1829.

Waukesha, Nov. 16—Some few weeks ago Superintendent Hendrickson assumed charge of the Industrial School during the absence of Mr. Sleep, at the request of a majority of the members of the Board of Managers. At a meeting of the Board last week it was proposed to make the appointment regular. One of the members refused to vote for the proposition, giving as his reason that when Mr.
Hendrickson left the institution two years ago he was a defaulter in the sum of $300.
Mr. Hendrickson was called in and asked to explain, which he could not do then; didn't know as he ever could; but where he had a dollar of the institution's money he didn't know. Since then the books have been investigated, and the amount has been reduced to about one-half by the discovery of mistakes of the bookkeeper. Mr. Hendrickson's friends are confident that the balance will be accounted for in the same way.

States.CONGRESSMAN SPEER Will Follow Dr. Felton and Leave the Democracy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—It is stated here that Congressman Speer, of Georgia, will follow the example of his colleague, Dr.
Felton, and renounce his allegiance to the Democratic party. One or two more such deserters will destroy the Democratic majority in the House. Speer, like Felton, was elected against the regular Democratic nominee.
This dropping off, and the recent announcements of Mr. S's speech that he will not again submit in silence to such decrees as the Democratic caucus promulgated last session, will go far to discourage the Democratic leadership. The entire Greenback strength, with Stephens, Felton and Speer, should vote with the Republicans, it would make the House a tie.

F. W. SEWARD.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—It is true that F. W. Seward has resigned as Assistant Secretary of State. John Hay, the post, will succeed him. Mr. Seward has been an official of the perfect sort, and it is scarcely possible that the duties of his office could be better performed than he has performed them. The public, and particularly those in the diplomatic service, will regret Mr. Seward's retirement.

It is not true as reported, that F. W. Seward will go to Russia. He will return to his home in Auburn, and complete the biography of his father. His wife so ill as to require his unremitting attention.

OUR CREDIT.

Under Republican Administration—A Comparison.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—The improvement of government credit through a series of years is strikingly shown in the recent purchase by Secretary Sherman of $10,- 000,000 of 6 per cent bonds in New York for 7 per cent premium. These bonds were payable June 30, 1881. In other words, government paper having only nineteen months to run brings 6 per cent premium in gold. These bonds were issued in 1861, and sold at a discount. The entire atmosphere was foggy. In July, 1862, they had fallen to 55 cents in coin. In January, 1863, they were worth but 65 cents. In July, 1864, they were worth but 41 cents, gold standard.
The appreciation of government interest-bearing obligation from 41 cents to 106 cents in ten years has hardly a parallel in the history of public finance. Forty-one cents was the lowest gold price they ever touched. One year after that—July, 1865—they had risen to 76 cents; in 1868 to 79 cents; in 1870
to 97 cents; in 1874 to 106 cents; in 1876 to 107 cents. In these figures we trace the gradual appreciation of government credit, taking gold as a standard of value.

SUNDAY RECEPTION.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—Centenary church was crowded Sunday morning to hear Dr.
Thomas preach. General Grant was also present. At the close of the sermon the congregation joined heartily in singing the hymn beginning:

Blest be the tie that binds Our hearts to Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds Is like to that above.

Dr. Thomas then said: "I am glad to state, Christian friends, after we have been dismissed we will have an opportunity of putting in application a little of this practical fellowship. General Grant has kindly consented to shake hands with those who may wish to meet him, and if you will observe this simple suggestion there will be satisfaction for all. After you are dismissed, go into the vestibule, and then, all the doors being closed but one, you can pass out in order and without confusion. It will only last ten or fifteen minutes, and then I hope you will keep up the hand-shaking. Shake hands with

BRIEFLETS.

The Circuit Court has adjourned till next Friday.

Dillon is coming with something extremely funny.

The tickets for the Knights of Pythias banquet have been issued in a very attractive form, and will be for sale at the Post office only.

J. J. Ray, formerly of our city, and now of Burns, Brown county, Minnesota, made us a pleasant call. He speaks in the highest terms of his new home.

The hog market at the Northwestern depot was booming to-day. Over thirty loads of hogs were on the ground at one time this forenoon, being delivered by farmers.

The remains of Theodore C. Ballou will be brought to this city for interment, to-morrow afternoon at 2:30. They will be taken directly from the depot to Oak Hill cemetery.

John Hennessey, who committed burglary about two months ago, was tried and convicted, and this forenoon was sentenced by Judge Conger to two years in the State Prison.

The new engine for the cotton factory is placed ready for business. If Lake Koshkonong or anybody else goes to "cutting up" with the water power, the cotton factory goes all the same.

Miss Addie Pease, youngest daughter of J. J. Pease, will accompany her uncle General Robinson, to-morrow afternoon, to Binghamton, N. Y., where she will attend the Young Ladies' College, of that city.

A youngster was caught stealing fruit from one of our Main street grocers this forenoon. He was made to return the apples and in lieu thereof received some wholesome advice, which he will not soon forget.

Among the interesting social gatherings of the present week will be the dance given by the Bower City Rifles, at Ehle's Hall, on Thursday evening the 20th. It will be a pleasant affair, and lovers of good music and the dance, should see that it is a successful one.

The case of the State against Myers, which was brought to this circuit from Green county, and then taken to Dane, will be called at Madison to-morrow. Bennett & Sale, of this city, will assist the District Attorney of Green county in prosecuting the case. The defendant is charged with perjury.

Mr. Wall, King, the vigorous and enterprising book dealer has a good supply of the Harper's Monthly for December. It is a rich number. The first article in magazine "The fortunes of the Bonapartes," is worth the price of the number alone. It is accompanied with sixteen portraits. The others are richly illustrated.

Prof. Cannon's Readings at Cannon's hall, Monday evening, November 24, will be one of the richest treat yet offered in this line to a Janesville audience. He will repeat the "Georgia Sermon," by request; and the programme generally will be one of his strongest, including several selections from the Merchant of Venice. Tickets, only 25 cents, will be for sale at the book-stores and at the door.

The morocco factory is very materially increasing its capacity. Business, which is increasing all the while, has made this step necessary. We are glad thus to note the enterprise and good fortune of the proprietors of that important factory. Their efforts to make this branch of industry a success will not be in vain. It is already successful, and yet has not got its growth.

On Saturday last, Mr. Theodore C. Ballou, in the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, was instantly killed between Fort Howard and Oshkosh. He was thrown from the step of a Green Bay and Minnesota railway car, and falling under the wheels, his head was completely severed from his body. Mr. Ballou was well known in Janesville having once resided here. He also married his wife here, she being the daughter of Mr. William Wright, who still resides in the city. His untimely and shocking death will cause a deep regret.

There were several interesting characteristics distinguishable in the audience which was instructed on the question of "Courtship and Marriage." The gathering was especially noticeable from the large number of young persons of either sex who attended the service independently of the other, apparently from an apprehension that some remark of the reverend gentleman might cause an outward manifestation of the pent-up affections within. One well-defined class were the persons who had reduced courtship to a profession—giving or receiving the most marked attentions, but always stopping just short of a consummation. There were those who were novices in the ostacles of the employment, and were evidently seeking for light to enable them to secure a multiplication of its luxuries. Then there was the important class which is always hovering on the ragged edge—uncertain whether by avoiding the loneliness and cheerlessness of celibacy they would not enter upon a life of lingual strife and domestic contention—escaping the scilla of selfishness only to be foundered on the Charybdis of self-sacrifice.

Another element represented those who zealously maintain the identity of the matrimonial and millennial states and hold that seraphic bliss is the earthly lot of those only who tread the warm and velvety path of hymeneal harmony. All these classes received instruction which ought to add to their wisdom or tone down their enthusiasm.

Astor House, New York, best accommodations, reduced prices.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVANSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer this morning stood 38 degrees above zero; and at one o'clock this afternoon at 42 degrees above. Cloudy.

The indications for the Upper Lake Region, Mississippi and Lower Missouri Valleys—rising and higher barometer, easterly winds, backing to colder northerly, and local rains or snow, principally in southern portions.

COURTSHIP AND MARRIAGE.

Affirmatively and Negatively Considered By Rev. Mr. Chapell—An Overriding Audience Hears Him—Some Practical Suggestions.

A very large congregation listened to the discourse of Rev. Mr. Chapell at the Baptist church on last evening, on the topic of "Courtship and Marriage"—an abstract of which follows:

Text Gen. 2-18 and 24.

A young man starting in life feels the need of companionship. It is not alone a general, and indefinite need, but a personal, individual help—a complementary aid. This feeling is ingrained in the very nature of the race—among both sexes and all people. Mankind was first comprehended in one man—it was not good for him to be alone and woman was provided. The latter became not a foreign and isolated being, but a companion to, and really a part of man. Hence it is that—

1st. Mankind is one in origin and purpose.

2d. Sex and marriage arise from the development and necessities of the race.

3d. Either sex is but partial mankind—considered as perpetually existing. It is made complete only by the holy union of two. Therefore God expands human life.

1st. By marriage, and 2d by birth and multiplication. In this process there arises unity—a counterpart of that higher trinity which exists in God.

This longing for companionship, which has been so deeply impressed on the heart of every person, is an emblem of the union of Christ and his church. It is significant that Christ was not married, but was constantly referring and looking forward to that condition for himself. Had he been only human, as some claim, subject to the ordinary passions and frailties of the race, he should have entered into the matrimonial state. But his marriage was of a different kind, and it is of deep and vital importance to every member of the Christian faith. There are circumstances and necessities which sometimes compel persons to tread life's path alone. Such have been some of the noblest souls whose actions are recorded in history; and in proportion as they have done the work of two should they be honored and rewarded.

For some reason these questions which so affect the life and conduct of every individual have been left to be handled by persons of jesting and flippant minds. Their serious importance renders it imperative that they should be treated by every teacher and leader of men. The subject was considered first negatively:

1st. Do not be in too great haste in deciding as to the time and person, as the decision bears an important relation to one's temporal and eternal welfare. Caution and prudence should be exercised. It is wise to listen to the voice of God. It is true that Providence has in store a husband or wife for every person. It is everyone's duty to watch, wait, listen and pray—the first impulse may be misleading—a device of the adversary. It is truer than many believe that matches are made in heaven—but the haste in making the match should be so slow as to make it certain that it has heaven's sanction. In the cozy parlor, under the brilliant gaslight, with delightful music and cheerful surroundings there may be displayed a charming demeanor, a happy disposition and a heroic purpose which will all give way and be supplanted by the most opposite characteristics, when sickness, adversity and death appear. True devotion and deep affection are to be sought for to secure perfect consolation and happiness.

21. Do not marry anyone who will be openly irreligious or neglectful of religious duties. Family prayer and sanctuary attendance must be observed. Think twice before uniting to an unbeliever. A Christian lady accomplished the desired end by making her future husband promise to read the scriptures and she would make the prayers. In this way the family altar was set up and the husband subsequently became a pillar in the church. Every Christian is bound by loyalty to his Savior to see him honored, and his principles inculcated in the family.

31. Be religiously and conscientiously scrupulous not to convey wrong impressions. Bitter sorrow has often arisen from constant attention and warm phrases—which were not made with serious purpose. Let neither party take steps which can be misinterpreted. Deal in frankness and candor, and not in uncertainty and ambiguity. This is the duty of the persons themselves as the custom of parents making matrimonial alliances for their children is obsolete. Persistent and exclusive attentions should neither be given or received without a perfect understanding.

Affirmatively it was said, 1st. Let pure love be the basis of every union. Love is the chiefest of the graces—the foundation of all domestic happiness. Society and civilization have introduced new arts and customs, and alliances are now made for money or position. No true happiness can result from association resting on such a basis. Nor should passion be mistaken for affection. True love is patient, it is wisdom and prudence, it expands and renews itself. Love may not be the only consideration involved, but it is the chiefest and the one most to be cultivated.

21 Marriage, like personal religion, is for individual decision. Others may advise and counsel, but the ultimate judgment comes home to the heart of each person. It is often said that marriage is a lottery. It is true if there is no God—but if there be, ask of him "what wilt thou have me do?" and the answer will always be unmistakable.

Remember that love being holy the conduct of lovers and married people should always be deferential and even reverential. Marriage should increase, not destroy, reverence. The sanctuary of love, if not profaned, will always remain a sanctuary. A marriage founded on a durable affection is a perpetual and substantial joy—sanctioned by God and leading to heavenly bliss.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

There was an interesting meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association at the Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, in which the pastors of the several churches and likewise the members, took part. The audience was quite large and the exercises afforded more than usual interest to those who hope for the success of that important association. One of the pleasant features of the gathering was the singing, which was not only appropriate for the occasion but was excellent and inspiring. The scriptures were read by Rev. J. W. Sanderson, and Rev. Mr. Sewell offered prayer; Mr. N. Dearborn, President of the Association, made a brief address concerning the field and the special work of the organization. His remarks were timely and very interesting. This was followed by addresses by Rev. Mr. Chapell, B. F. Dunwiddie, Esq., Rev. Mr. Sewell, and Rev. Mr. Sanderson. This Association has done a great deal of good work for Janesville, and this reunion of hearts and voices could not fail to prove very pleasant and profitable.

"Don't forget to bring St. JACOB'S OIL for father's Rheumatism," was the parting word we overheard at the station the other morning.

"AS YOU LIKE IT."

The knights of the Round Table met on Saturday night to talk about Shakespeare's comedy, "As you like it." The meeting was held in Cannon's hall where all the surroundings tended to make the occasion one of real enjoyment.

Prof. D. B. Jackson, of the Classical Academy, opened the programme with a paper upon "The English of Shakespeare," showing how the words and terms were newly coined in the recently revival of literature, wherein the strong Saxon was revived to counteract the Latin phrases.

The "Landscape scenery and Social Life," as portrayed in the comedy, was the subject of an essay read by Miss Saie Jeffris.

Mrs. J. W. Sanderson interested the members of the Round Table by giving some readings from "As You Like It." The Rev. Mr. Sawin, Mr. Dunwiddie, and Mr. McElroy also took part in the programme, and added to the interest of the meeting.

Among the Useful Toilet Articles we notice a much liked preparation for the hair, possessed of properties so remarkable that no one who cares to own a clean and healthy scalp with beautiful hair should pass it untried. Its properties are cleansing, invigorating and healing, and after a few applications the hair ceases to fall. Dandruff and Humors disappear, and the hair grows clean, soft and silky. It keeps the head cool and comfortable and gradually restores the hair, if gray or faded, to the natural and life like color, beautiful to look upon. It is Parker's Hair Balsam that has won such popular appreciation by its many excellent and healthful properties. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cts. and $1.00, by all first class druggists.

A National Blessing. is SOZODON, for there can be no "four-mouthed" man or woman who uses it. It is purifying, beautifying and exalts in flavor. Whoever uses it regularly will keep his teeth for years, and whoever abstains denies himself a great luxury. It costs comparatively but little money, and is invaluable.

Why is SPALDING'S GLUE like love? Because it forms strong attachments, Oh, dear.

From Rev. Sylvanus Cobb, of Boston, formerly Editor of the Christian Freeman.

"It may be some satisfaction to you to be informed of the result of the trial of the PERUVIAN SYRUP in my family. My daughter was brought low by a typhoid fever last spring, and after the fever left her she continued very weak, and the simplest food distressed her. For months she remained in the same debilitated condition, but from the 1st of September last, when she commenced taking the Syrup, the digestive functions improved, and she steadily gained strength and vivacity; and now, having taken two bottles, she is restored to a good state of health; indeed, she appears more lively healthy than she has for several years past. I am of opinion that the Peruvian Syrup, contained in the Peruvian Syrup was adapted to her case, and effected what no other known medicine could have effected." Sold by druggists and dealers generally. Sold in Janesville by Prentice & Evan's.
